

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRPERSON

Dear Readers,

It is with immense pride and pleasure that I extend my warmest greetings to all the contributors, readers, and supporters of the MAGLAW Student Journal as we embark on the journey of presenting Volume 3, Issue 1. Building on the resounding success of the previous volumes, our journal continues to serve as a testament to the intellectual rigor and scholarly dedication of our law students.

The MAGLAW Student Journal has established itself as a distinguished platform for legal discourse, fostering an environment where emerging legal minds can share their insights, research, and analyses on contemporary legal issues. The consistent quality and relevance of the articles published in the previous issues have set a high benchmark, one that we are committed to upholding and surpassing with each new edition.

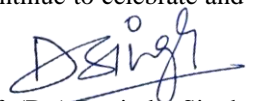

Volume 3, Issue 1 promises to deliver a rich tapestry of legal scholarship, encompassing diverse topics that reflect the dynamic and evolving nature of law. The contributions in this issue not only demonstrate the analytical prowess of our students but also their ability to engage with complex legal challenges and propose innovative solutions.

I would like to extend my heartfelt gratitude to the editorial board for their unwavering commitment and meticulous efforts in curating this journal. Their dedication ensures that each issue is a product of rigorous review and thoughtful selection, maintaining the journal's reputation for excellence.

To our readers, I express my deepest appreciation for your continued support and engagement. Your interest and feedback are invaluable as they inspire and drive us to strive for greater heights in our academic pursuits.

As we release Volume 3, Issue 1, I am confident that the articles within will stimulate thought-provoking discussions and contribute meaningfully to the broader legal community. I encourage all our readers to delve into this issue with the same enthusiasm and curiosity that our contributors have invested in their writings.

Thank you for being a part of this academic endeavour. Together, let us continue to celebrate and advance the pursuit of legal knowledge.

Prof. (Dr.) Devinder Singh
Chairperson- Department of Laws &
Patron-in Chief, MAGLAW

MESSAGE FROM THE EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Dear Contributors and Readers,

As we unveil Volume 3, Issue 1 of the MAGLAW Student Journal, I extend my heartfelt gratitude to our dedicated authors, diligent reviewers, and enthusiastic readers who have supported this academic endeavor. Our journal stands as a beacon of intellectual pursuit and a platform for the brightest legal minds to contribute to the ever-evolving landscape of legal scholarship.

In this issue, I would like to underscore the paramount importance of research integrity and ethics. The pursuit of knowledge is grounded in the principles of honesty, transparency, and accountability. As scholars, it is our duty to uphold these values in every aspect of our work. Original research and critical thinking are the cornerstones of academic excellence, and we must strive to contribute meaningful and authentic insights to the existing body of literature.

In the current era, where technological advancements have become integral to research and writing, it is crucial to address the role of artificial intelligence (AI) in our scholarly activities. While AI can be a valuable tool for enhancing research efficiency, we must exercise caution to ensure it does not undermine our originality and critical thinking. The over-reliance on AI-generated content can lead to a dilution of our intellectual contributions and stifle the creativity that is essential for legal innovation. I urge all contributors to use AI judiciously, ensuring that it supplements rather than supplants their unique perspectives and analytical abilities.

Moreover, I want to reiterate our journal's zero-tolerance policy for plagiarism. Academic dishonesty not only tarnishes the reputation of the individual but also compromises the integrity of the entire scholarly community. Plagiarism is a serious violation of ethical standards and will not be tolerated under any circumstances. All submissions will undergo rigorous scrutiny to ensure the originality and authenticity of the content. I encourage all authors to meticulously cite their sources and contribute work that is genuinely their own.

To our aspiring legal scholars, I encourage you to embrace the challenge of adding value to the existing literature. Your research should aim to explore uncharted territories, provide fresh perspectives, and propose innovative solutions to contemporary legal issues. By doing so, you will not only enhance your intellectual growth but also make a significant impact on the broader legal community.

As we move forward, let us collectively commit to upholding the highest standards of research integrity and ethics. Together, we can foster an environment of academic excellence and contribute to the advancement of legal knowledge.

Thank you for your continued support and dedication to the MAGLAW Student Journal. I am confident that this issue will inspire, enlighten, and provoke thoughtful discourse among our readers.

Prof. Shipra Gupta
Editor-in-Chief

MAGLAW Student Journal
Department of Laws, Panjab University

MESSAGE FROM STUDENT EDITORS

"Good legal writing does not merely inform but inspires change, bridging the gap between law and society to promote justice and equity."

- Bryan A. Garner

Dear Esteemed Readers,

As Student Editors of MAGLAW, we extend heartfelt gratitude to our esteemed Editorial Board for their unwavering dedication and invaluable guidance. Their expertise and commitment have been instrumental in shaping the journal into a beacon of legal knowledge.

To our readers, we cannot emphasize enough the wealth of knowledge and insight contained within these pages. Each article and case comment is meticulously crafted, offering profound analysis and perspectives on contemporary legal issues. Our authors provide a diverse array of thought-provoking content that is both informative and transformative.

Engaging with this journal is more than an academic exercise; it is an opportunity to delve into the dynamic interplay of law and society, to question, to learn, and to be inspired. We hope that each issue not only enriches your understanding but also ignites your passion for legal inquiry and advocacy.

Thank you for your continued support and for making this journal a part of your intellectual journey.

Student Editors
MAGLAW Student Journal
Department of Laws, Panjab University